

Abstract

Apparatus for practicing the technique of lofting a ball comprises a support frame containing two upright supports linked by a horizontal cross-bar. Two inclined guideways extend between ground anchors and the supports. A substantially inelastic reciprocating means is connected to and freely movable along the guideways and a ball connected to said reciprocating means.

00980092-021102